Atunmontepuncu. After our Mexican expedition, consisting of Ubaldo Martínez, Agustín Tagle, Santos Castro, Jorge Rivera, Guillermo Carrasco, Felipe García and me, failed to reach our objective of Huascarán because of bad weather, I returned alone and was again driven back on July 9 in bad weather after reaching the Garganta. On July 15 with the Peruvian Victor Albino I climbed Atunmontepuncu (17,806 feet).

Huascarán and Quitaraju. On July 10 Paul Müller and Albert Fellinger of the Swiss Solothurn Expedition with the Peruvian porter Felipe Mautino reached the summit of the north peak of Huascarán (21,834 feet) in bad weather, which turned back their companions Dölf Reist and Otto Zbinden from the higher south summit. The latter pair returned the next day to climb the north peak. The group then headed north to the Quebrada Alpamayo. On July 23, from Camp between Quitaraju and Alpamayo, Fellinger and Reist climbed Quitaraju (19,850 feet), while Zbinden and Hanspeter Jenni started up the south ridge of Alpamayo. Jenni was not well and was unable to continue; Zbinden followed the tracks of the others to the summit of Quitaraju. Expedition leader Dr. Jürg Ammon and Müller meanwhile climbed a steep rock peak of 18,375 feet which lay in front of Quitaraju. On July 25, Jenni and Felipe Mautino again climbed Quitaraju.

Peruvian Ascents. The following ascents were made in 1964 but remained unreported until this year. On July 23 G. Murillo, J. Cancio Anco and F. Gutiérrez climbed Aricoma Sur (18,225 feet), where they named a glacier for César Morales Arnao, and Aricoma Norte (17,881 feet), where they named a glacier for Haydee Bruno. The next day Murillo, Cancio, D. Latorre and J. Ramos climbed Kunurana Noroeste or Huamanpoco (18,865 feet). These first ascents were made in the Cordillera La Raya. In 1965 a number of climbs were made in the Cordillera Blanca (first ascents marked ): an ascent of Urus Este (17,782 feet) on July 27 by Alcides Ames and Justiniano Huamán; Ishinca Este (18,143 feet), eighth ascent, and Ishinca Oeste (17,142 feet) on July 29 by A. Ames, F. Moreno, V. Tarazona Soto and J. Huamán; Yurakraju (16,995 feet) west of Santa Cruz and south of Quebrada Yuraccocha on July 20 by A. Ames and Pedro Baltazar; Kaikoraju* (17,881 feet) on August 15 by Fortunato Mautino and A. Ames; Yankururish* (19,095 feet) both just north of Alpamayo on August 16 by F. Mautino and A. Ames; Ishinca Este, ninth ascent, and Ishinca Oeste on August 22 by a mixed Peruvian-French group consisting of A. Ames, R. Garrote, C. Bousquet and B.
