

boos in 1910, and was a member of the party which explored Mt. Robson in the following year, he himself making the first ascent of Mt. Resplendent. His pictures of the Lake of the Hanging Glaciers were particularly well known, and he went with Lewis Freeman to the Columbia Icefield, the latter's book, Roof of the Rockies, being dedicated to Byron Harmon, "who gave the Rocky Mountains to the World."

J. M. T.

MARY GODDARD POTTER

1865-1943

Dr. Potter, who died on January 13th, 1943, in her 79th year, was born in Barre, Mass. She was a graduate of Boston University and took her medical degree at New York University in 1903. She became a physical training teacher in the public school system, joined the staff of Wadleigh in 1912 and retired in 1934. She had been a member of the American Alpine Club since 1921, and was also active in the Alpine Club of Canada and allied organizations, spending many of her summers in Banff. In 1895 she helped blaze the trail up Glacier Crest, in the Selkirks, and, in 1898, was with Dr. Sperry in exploring what is now Glacier National Park.