Peaks in Cordillera Vilcanota. The second group of the Munich Andean Trip had as members Angelika Forster, Sigfried Völkl, George Ashton, Reinhard Vogl and me. We made the following ascents: Campa I (17,995 feet) by all on August 23; P 5475 (17,962 feet) and Huekiriti (18,603 feet) by Völkl, Vogl, Ashton on August 24 and by Konnerth and Forster on August 26; Campa II Sur (18,307 feet) by Völkl, Vogl, Ashton on August 26; Huamanticaya (17,208 feet) by Völkl, Ashton on August 27 and by Konnerth on August 31; Mariposa (19,056 feet) via north face by Vogl, Völkl, Konnerth, Forster on August 28; Tinquí (17,864 feet) via west ridge (new route) by Vogl, Völkl and via east ridge by Konnerth, Forster, Ashton on August 30; P 5100 (16,733 feet) first ascent via north ridge by Vogl, Ashton on September 1. The last mentioned is a rock tower on the northeast ridge of Qaqaqiru and east of Huamanticaya.

HERBERT KONNERTH, Deutscher Alpenverein

Jatunhuma Southeast, Cordillera Vilcanota. In August of 1973 Germans August Inselkammer, Peter Sahlberg, Otto Wolf Kraemer, Christoph Lacher, Klaus Winter and Gustavo Vucetich climbed Jatunhuma Southeast (5830 meters or 19,128 feet), approaching from the southwest and ascending the southeast ridge to the summit. They also climbed Campa I (17,996 feet) and Pacco 18,209 feet).

Vinaya, Antaimarca and Vichgana, Cordillera Vilcanota, and Allincapac, Cordillera Carabaya. Our expedition of the Munich section of the German Alpine Club (DAV) was composed of Herbert Konnerth, Bernd Lukas, Rainer Stolz, Horst Ullrich, Felix Golling, my wife Annelie Klement and I. On June 15 we had been waiting for some days for our baggage in Cuzco and decided to ride to La Raya Pass (14,163 feet) to acclimatize. On June 17 we climbed Yahuarcocha Este (16,667 feet) and Yahuarcocha Oeste (16,798 feet), southwest of the pass. All but Konnerth reached the first summit and all but my wife and Lukas, the second. The next day all but Konnerth climbed Chimboya (18,009 feet), some by the southwest face and others by the southeast face of the south ridge. We then entered the Cordillera Vilcanota. From Marcapata we ascended the Río Chumpi and branched off up the Quebrada Colline at Hallapata village, reaching Base Camp on the Ranrachaca Pampa at 14,925 feet, although we had great difficulty
